Stand by your beds

Around the world, a shadowy army of plant lovers is on a mission: to make even the smallest patches of land blossom with life. Armed with fingers, spades and seeds, they are stealthily filling neglected public land with flowers and shrubs. Richard Reynolds explains how he joined their ranks and became a guerrilla gardener.

I felt like a tooth fairy or a green-fingered vandal

What to plant?

- Colour
- Fragrance
- Incongruity

A family of butterflies living in a large pool and the hive is full of bees

How to deal with vandals

What's a seed bomb?